WOMAN'S WISH

The woman's wants in a house are the most important, for that is woman's abiding place; to a man it is more of a place to sleep and eat. In matters of house decoration, as a rule, women have the best taste. We make a business of this work, and the displays we have from artists in the various lines of house decoration are great leaders for woman's natural taste in this direction. Come and see.

ASSESSING CORPORATIONS.

The County Board of Review Advances Valuation—Pawnbrokers' Tax Lists.

The County Board of Review yesterday finished the work of assessing corporations, though the figures are not yet regarded as final, as protests may still be heard. The protests thus far have been very few, and the board is getting through its work a great deal more rapidly than it expected to. It spent a part of yesterday upon the bank lists, and will be ready to take up real estate in a few days.

The Indianapolis Water Company was assessed at $441,478, including all its real and personal property and franchise, the latter being valued at $25,000. The Indianapolis Gas Company's assessment upon both the natural and artificial gas plants, and all other property, is $1,200,000, an increase of $200,000, or 20 per cent, over last year. The Citizens' Street-Railroad Company's plant, equipment and other property is fixed at $1,100,000, an increase of $200,000 over last year, or about 20 per cent. None of these three public corporations have yet entered a protest. The Nordyke & Marmon Company, one of the largest private corporations in the city, is assessed at $200,000.

The list of pawnbrokers' stocks was yesterday afternoon fixed as follows: Patrick Conlen, $2,400; A. Cohen & Son, $5,700; John Gieseler, $3,725; Jas. Meyer & Co., $1,875; John P. Rodgers, $1,300; Sarah Sullivan, $5,500; Wellner & Co., $375; A. N. Wilson, $550.

Illness of Aquilla Jones, Sr. Ex-Postmaster Jones is very ill at his home, No. 988 North Illinois street. Tuesday evening he was sitting outdoors, and, becoming chilly, went to his room, where in a short time his sickness developed. His symptoms are alarming. Mr. Jones was eighty years old on Wednesday.

PRICES HAVE NOT GONE UP

The Democratic Scare Over the McKinley Law Vanishes in Face of Facts.

Merchants Say They Are Selling Goods at Figure No Higher Than Last Year—American Slips Better Than the Imported.

When the McKinley bill became a law a large number of free-trade prevaricators were busy going up and down in the land predicting an enormous advance in the price of everything worn by man, woman and child. It didn't make any difference whether the articles were manufactured abroad or in this country. Now that the law is fairly in operation, a Journal reporter thought it might not be wholly uninteresting to take a little turn among the retailers with a view to discovering just how much more their patrons were called upon to pay for goods in the summer of 1891 than in the summer of 1890. It was to be a practical illustration of the McKinley law, with "before" and "after-taking" views. The first inquiry was made at the When clothing store. "Clothing," said Mr. J. H. Cameron, in answer, "is about the same now as at this time last year. Take a ten-dollar suit. We have never before been able to give as handsome a suit for that money. And the same may be said of higher-priced goods. These are no higher. In some grades they are lower."

"Hats," said H. Bamberger, "are relatively the same price as last year, but I think we sell a better quality for the same money. This is due to competition among manufacturers. For instance, if manufacturer A gets out a hat at $25 a dozen, I get out a better at the same price, and I improve still more in stock and trimmings."

The selling price of our goods at this season," said the manager of the When clothing-house, "is neither higher nor lower than at this time last year. It is exactly the same."

"Our prices to consumers," said Leopold Straus, of the Original Eagle clothing-house, "are about the same as last summer. This is true of hats, clothing and gentlemen's furnishings. Of course, in imported goods there is some advance in prices."

"Carpets are selling as low now as ever," said Mr. Lee of Eastman, Schleicher & Lee. "There is a large due to increased competition in this city, for we have to pay more for them. The prices for draperies are to consumers materially less than in former years. In the general line of wall-papers there is no advance."

At the carpet-house of Albert Gall information was to the effect that the consumer is paying no more for goods now in the general lines than there has been an advance to the dealer. That no change has taken place has been due to the fact that dealers bought anticipating the advance.

In shoes a number of dealers gave the information that prices were just as favorable to customers as this summer as in the corresponding time last year; in some lines perhaps even a little lower. Cigar-dealers say that those who smoke the highest-priced goods imported from Cuba and Key West goods, pay more for them than they did formerly. But for a quarter now must sell at straight 15 cents to afford sufficient profit. But the dealer that the seed and Havana cigar, domestic is preferred by most smokers, and there has been no advance to the consumer on those goods. On the contrary, they now cost both 10 and 5-cent goods are better now than they have ever been in the history of the country.

At the New York store John Larrig gave the information that muslins and domestics are as cheap this season as at the same time last year; even in linen, the prices are practically the same. There has been no advance in domestic draperies, silks and chemises. Lace curtains have advanced. "It would require a magnifying glass," remarked H. P. Watson, "to tell any difference as to prices. Domestics are about the same as last year. Silks have never been cheaper than now. American silks are good—none are better. When it comes to novelty, of course, the French always have the call. They are a luxury, and people expect to pay for them. It is not intrinsic value that makes their price. In ribbons you can't tell the difference between French and American, and they go cheap. To-day the designs in American prints are novel, some more than any imported stuff. We are getting to be Americans with a big 'A' in the dry-goods line."

THE SUMMER MISSION.

A Worthy Charity That Should Have the Help of All Who Pity the Sick Children of the Poor.

The comparative cool weather has had a tendency to decrease the attendance of sick children at Fresh-air Camp, the average attendance this week being forty-two each day. Arrangements have been completed to afford a certain number of children two or three weeks' vacation at Mooresville. This has been made possible by the kindness of ladies of the W. C. T. U. of that town. The following sum-list has been received at the office of the mission: Indianapolis Journal, $50; Jesse Fletcher, $10; F. A. Maus, $10; T. C. Schaff, $10; H. H. Hanna, $25; W. H. Bennett, $5; Corliss & Hollenbeck, $5; H. Lieber Company, $5; Indiana Humane Society, $10; total to date, $298.37. The Rev. J. A. Milburn has issued an appeal to the members of the Second Presbyterian Church on behalf of the mission, in which he says it greatly needs sympathy and help. Five hundred dollars more, at least, are needed to continue this good work. "I hope you will come to its support with a large and generous contribution," he continues. "Do not make this appeal as chairman of the finance committee of the Summer Mission. I make it as your pastor and friend, and I do sincerely trust that our church shall make a handsome financial response to the needs of this good and worthy work."

Money for Benevolent Institutions.

Warrants were issued by the Auditor of State yesterday to pay for the maintenance of the employees and patients of the Central Hospital for Insane for last month, the amount being $21,677.79; also for clothing, $6,704.83; repairs, $1,453.83; and transfer of patients, $211.55. The June maintenance of the institution for the Deaf and Dumb amounting to $4,156.37; current expenses and repairs, $8,096.31; and electric-light plant, $73.21, were also paid. The trustees of the institution have awarded J. E. Shover a contract to remodel the lower floor of the old building for $1,900. Healey & O'Brien, on their bid of $2,500, got a plumbing contract, and the Western Electric Company is to furnish an electric-light equipment for $4,255. This includes dynamo and six hundred incandescent lights to be connected to the direct instead of the alternating current system. All the bids for boilers were rejected, and will be received again July 17.

Backboard Party Overturned.

A backboard party that went to Millersville night before last did not return to the city until late yesterday morning on account of an accident. Returning home they were driving down a hill this side of Millersville, when the horses were thrown down by some rails that had been placed across the road. The vehicle was upset, but its occupants escaped without serious injury. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Van Buren, Merrill Moores, Will Elliott,

Controller Woolen Talks of Things for Which He Has Been Criticized.

Controller Woolen yesterday went into a further explanation of the dog-licence question with a Journal reporter. "I am healed at every point in this matter," said he, "and I should like you to understand the reason for everything done here, because the temper of what the Journal has had to say on this subject has been eminently fair. I certainly admit the right of the Council to investigate the office and it is right that it should do so. The clause quoted from the charter by the Journal this morning is correct, yet Section 49 of the same instrument requires me to turn over every week all licenses and fees to the treasurer, apparently showing that their collection here is not prohibited. The right to employ more help in the office I get from Section 48, a general provision covering all executive departments. I could not lighten the 75 cents license paid into the treasurer's office and the 35-cent controller's fee paid here. It takes no more time to collect a dollar than it does to collect 35 cents."

"But are there any such things as controller's fees?" asked the reporter. "Yes," replied Mr. Woolen: "the city attorney decided that when the charter went into effect the city clerk's fees became controller's fees. Now as to the number of licenses issued: From March 7 to July 9 this year I have turned into the treasury on this account $2,631. From Jan. 1 to July 9 the clerk turned in $274.75, making a total of $2,905.75 thus far this year against a total of $2,841 for 1890 and $3,013.50 for 1889."

"But did not the clerk turn in 25 per cent. less than you because he retained the 25 cents fee which you turn into the treasury?" was asked. "No," replied Mr. Woolen. "I only turn in 75 cents on this account for each license. The other I turn over as fees." "There must be a fault in Mr. Woolen's figures somewhere, for 75 cents will not divide evenly into $2,631. To turn over exactly this amount of money he must have licensed 3,507 2/3 dogs, and the question usually arises as to why the other two-thirds of that last dog were not licensed." "The Journal's logic," continued Mr. Woolen, "is sound in saying that the two-thirds of controller and treasurer should act as a check on each other and there is force in the argument that the letter of the law is its real nature from the slip-seeking nature of the law. But the question of the integrity of the officers. But it is not possible that clerks could pocket dog-licence money without my knowing it. No clerk or tag agent could make more than 5,000 and we have a record of where every one goes to."

Knows Nothing About It. Street Commissioner Pat Harrold strenuously denies that he has sold any of the dirt hauled from the streets. "I never sell any dirt," said he yesterday, "and never have sold any. We always haul it to the nearest place where it is wanted and dump it there free of charge. If any has been sold by contractors it is because of some knowledge and against my instructions. It is my belief that if any of them have taken any money at all it has been in the shape of a gratuity or tip. That must have been the case, for he had been out from $2 to $1.50 per day, never got but $1.50, and the pay-roll shows it."

Albert Schum told a reporter last night that he did not say to Poll the matter ought to be smoothed. "There was nothing said by me," remarked Mr. Schum, "but he could have said anything. Further, I did not agree to have Poll reinstated on the street commissioner's force, nor did I tell him I would go off Harrold's band and go back to do as he will and do as he favors, in regard to the next city election, to say that I am not a candidate for councilman-at-large, and that I will not accept a nomination."

WORK ON THE MONUMENT.

Incandescent Lights on Upper Astragal—Iron-Work Sub-Let to an Indianapolis Firm.

It is quite likely the upper astragal of the soldiers' monument will be constructed to admit of its being illuminated. Incandescent lights will have to be used, and the effect will certainly be very striking. President Langdale has just returned from Cleveland where he saw a model of it. Mr. Brewster has not yet started on the model for the middle astragal. The commissioners desired some changes made, which he is not sure can be accomplished within the time contracted for. The contract for the iron-work, which was secured by Mr. Strosser, of Chicago, has been let to Hetherington & Bernier, of this city, because of labor troubles in the Chicago men's manufactory. The commissioners are well pleased that an Indianapolis firm is to do the work, because there is less liability of delay, and any mistake can easily and quickly be remedied. Mr. Langdale hopes to be in readiness within another month to send out his specifications for the competition for the side groups at the base of the monument, the most elaborate of all the work.

AFFAIRS OF LABOR.

Street Railway Employees and President Fowler Silent as to Their Conference.

The committee of the Brotherhood of Street-car Conductors, Motormen and Drivers met President Fowler yesterday morning, and were closeted with him for half an hour. Mr. Fowler said afterward that the committee had pledged him to secrecy, and its members too were silent as to the outcome of the conference. It was hinted, however, that the interview was not as satisfactory as was hoped. Mr. Fowler is said to have offered the discharged stablemen positions as good as those they left and work them into their old positions as fast as possible, with the assurance of steady employment. The committee said that they ought to have their old positions at the pay schedule of $1.35 a day, and that the men who took their places be given the outside work. The company maintains that no consideration is due the new employees, and is firm against discharging them to make place for the strikers. The Brotherhood's regular weekly meeting began soon after midnight with a very large attendance. The opposition to a strike has gained strength, and some of the members have said they will return to work. It is believed the stablemen are not united, and that they made a mistake in not taking the first increase offered, thus making themselves difficult to defend. The meeting this morning was not as protracted as usual, and resulted in further delaying action of any sort. The report of the committee which met Mr. Fowler was not made public. It led to another effort at arbitration and a committee of seven, among whom are Messrs. Ingram, Hendrix, House, Hunter and Jones, was appointed to confer with Mr. Fowler again to-day. This committee will report to a special meeting called for to-night. It is probable the meeting will continue till late to-morrow morning, as an effort will be made to have every member of the brotherhood present. The delay is considered by some observers in labor circles, to be a part of the programme to protract the negotiations till the middle of the month, when a strike, if wided upon, may be based on grievances of the conductors, drivers and motormen instead of a numerically weak union.

Teamsters and Shovelers.

The Teamsters' and Shovelers' Union had a large open meeting last night at Mansur Hall. The principal address was made by D. F. Kennedy, on the plans, purposes and possibilities of the organization.

Butler University.

The directors of Butler University have elected A. M. Atkinson, of Wabash, as their president, Rev. B. F. Blount, the old president, withdrawing in his favor. Simeon Frazier was re-elected secretary and Ovid Jameson attorney of the board. The receipts and expenditures of the institution last year were $21,600. The available cash capital for endowment purposes is $211,000, and the endowment real estate is valued at $12,000.

Knocked Out of Their Buggy.

While driving across the tracks at Noble street last night, John Bruce and John Davenport were knocked out of their buggy. A Panhandle engine struck it. Bruce was hurt, but Davenport's shoulder was dislocated. He was taken to his home, No. 370 Home avenue, in Kreigio & Whitsett's ambulance.

Another Chance for a Row.

The Seventh-street row will be opened again before the Board of Public Works this morning by the presentation of a remonstrance against asphalt and a petition for brick. The members of the board, with the exception of Mr. Deires, are non-committal on what action they are likely to take, but the latter is just angry enough about the charges made by Major Richards and Mr. Coffin to vote for either going ahead with the asphalt contract or making improvement on Seventh street at all this year.

WHEELMEN OF THE STATE.

After a Business Meeting a Parade Is to Occur—Sixteen Events at the Fair Grounds.

The bicyclists will be here in force to-morrow for the State meet. In the morning there will be a business meeting of the Indiana division, at the rooms of the Zig-zag Club, in the Lorraine block. At 1 o'clock the parade will take place, and at 2 the races begin at the fair grounds. The track has been rolled until it is in fine shape, hard, and fast, and it is confidently expected that the best of the riders in the State will be seen to-morrow afternoon. The programme comprises sixteen events, as follows: One mile novice, safety; one-quarter mile, L. A. W. State championship, ordinary; two-mile handicap, safety; one-half mile, L. A. W. State championship, ordinary; one-quarter mile, L. A. W. State championship, safety; one mile, L. A. W. State championship, tandem; one mile, 320 class, safety; one mile, handicap, ordinary; one-half mile, L. A. W. State championship, safety; two miles, open, ordinary; one mile, L. A. W. State championship, safety; one-half mile, boy's safety, twenty-six-inch wheels or under, fourteen years or under; one mile, consolation, mixed. There are fifty-six entries in all, many having entered for half a dozen or more events. Some of the races have as high as twenty entries. Among the crack riders who will start are George R. Barrett, Howard Little and George Dennison, of Chicago; R. M. Tidd and Richard Harek, of St. Louis; R. Lafferty, of Nashville, Tenn.; and Prince Wells, of Louisville. These riders all have records under 25 and it is probable they will win them to-morrow if the conditions are favorable. These races will be the first bicycle events Indianapolis has had a chance to witness in several years. The grandstand will be free to everyone, and a portion will be reserved for ladies and their escorts. The parade to-morrow afternoon will form on Mississippi street, west of the State-house and move east on Ohio to Tennessee, south on Tennessee to Washington, east on Washington to Noble, countermarch on Washington to Pennsylvania, north on Pennsylvania to Ohio, west on Ohio to Illinois, north on Illinois to New York, east on New York to Meridian, north on Meridian to St. Joseph, east on St. Joseph to Delaware and north on Delaware to exposition grounds.

GETTING READY EARLY.

The Democratic State Central Committee to Prepare the Way for Its Successor Next Year.

The Democratic State central committee will meet here to-day to arrange a plan of organization. The committee proposes to get into action early, and will unload tons of Democratic literature upon unsuspecting voters, as well as help the boys out wherever it is thought worth while. Chairman Charles L. Jewett arrived late last night from New York, and will be responsible for an inquiry from a Journal reporter, that the committee proposed to get things in shape to make it interesting for the faithful to come up to the city for the summer, he went away for the summer, and remarked that it would probably be the last meeting the present committee would hold. The new State committee will be chosen Jan. 8, 1892. Whatever work there was to be done under the direction of his committee would, he probably be mapped out at to-day's meeting.

Mrs. Matheny Still Living.

Lemuel Elder, father of Mrs. Matheny, arrived from Battleville yesterday morning. He was deeply affected by the tragic death of his son-in-law and the precarious condition of his daughter, but after viewing the body of the former, seemed to express forgiveness by stooping and kissing the cold lips. The wounded wife lingered all day unconscious, showing a wonderful vitality. The bullet in her shoulder was extracted by Dr. Williams in the afternoon, and one of the nurses said she seemed last night to be a little better. The funeral of Matheny will take place to-day. His brother arrived from Cincinnati last night. The orphaned child has been taken to the home of Harvey Engle. At 1 o'clock this morning Mrs. Matheny was still alive.

Inexpensive Wedding Trip.

The Norwich (Conn.) couple who have set out on a one-thousand-mile bicycle trip for their wedding tour have set an example commendable in its originality. It was time for a new departure in the matter of the bridal tour, which had grown strangely hackneyed despite various attempts to disguise its real nature from the slip-seeking railway porter, and to impart to it a tone of novelty by taking the bride's mother along. The bicycle offers a cheap and easy mode of bridal-tour travel, and readily distance the conventionalities—and the parting showers of rice.
